SHIPS, PLANES HIT MARSHALLS HEAVY BLOW

Tokyo Radio Reports Indicate U. S. Troops May Have Landed.

By The Associated Press

Tokyo radio reported today "fierce fighting is now going on" in the mid-Pacific Marshall islands, which have been bombed and shelled by American warships from perhaps the greatest naval force ever thrown into action.

Simultaneously the Navy department announced United States submarines had sunk 14 more Japanese warships, including three transports.

Tokyo's broadcast asserted "Japanese army and navy units have intercepted powerful enemy units which have been attacking the Marshall group since the morning of Jan. 30." This may have referred only to air action against assaulting American task forces, but suggested an invasion by American amphibious forces might be under way.

Latest announcement from the United States command was of a naval attack yesterday.

Landing Hinted

Tokyo's reference to "Japanese army and navy units" suggested the possibility that American landing forces may have gone ashore on one or more of the islands or that surface warships may have clashed. On the other hand, it may have meant only that the air arms of both services were in action.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' communique issued at Pearl Harbor Sunday night made no mention of landings, but did say that surface forces—presumably battleships, cruisers and destroyers—had moved to within 10 to 20 miles of the atolls and fired thousands of rounds of shells. The Nimitz communique was issued long after the time given by Tokyo for the attack. The "morning of Jan. 30," Tokyo time, would be Jan. 29, Pearl Harbor time, since the Marshalls lie west of the International date line.

It was the second consecutive day of assault by ships and planes on the central Pacific islands the Japs have had 25 years to fortify. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet commander, in a communique from Pearl Harbor, said last night surface forces, probably battleships, cruisers and destroyers, moved within 10 to 20 miles of the atolls to pound installations with thousands of shells.

Carrier-based planes dropped tons of bombs on the islands, holding immobile Japanese air strength that might otherwise have been used to make trouble for our air and sea operations.

Enemy forces presumably were huddling in underground pillboxes and bomb shelters similar to those Marines found on Tarawa after the Nov. 20 invasion on the Gilbert Islands 300 miles to the south.

Another Atoll Hit

Other carriers harassed Eniwetok, northwest atoll of the group, holding immobile by their heavy bombardment Japanese air strength that might have handicapped U. S. operations elsewhere.

No details of the actions were reported. Radio silence was enforced at sea for protection of

U. S. Infantry and Tanks Break German Line North of Cassino

Allied Air Forces Score Heavily Against Nazis by Knocking Down 63 Planes.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 31—American infantry and tank teams, surprising the Nazis with a thrust across river bottom deliberately flooded by the Germans to form a barrier, have achieved a break through German defenses north of Cassino, allied headquarters announced today.

While American fighters and bombers scored a record bag in Italy in knocking down 63 German planes in a series of flattening assaults yesterday on four enemy air bases in northeastern Italy, British Tommies and American Rangers with tanks and tank-destroyer teams fought a string of sharp actions along the perimeter of the Anzio bridgehead and enlarged their grip on the strategic wedge 19 or 20 miles below Rome.

The Germans evidently had gained time to prepare defenses through the Alban hills along the railroad from Rome to Cisterna, 26 miles southwest of the Eternal City, and the British and Americans were methodically blasting them out of haystacks, silos, farm buildings and villages hastily converted into camouflaged pillboxes and forts.

American infantrymen, working with tank units, have sent the German Gustav line backward in the Cassino area and captured new heights beyond the Rapido river bridgehead.

The Americans entered the village of Cairo, a little more than three miles north and slightly west of Cassino, and occupied Monte Villa, about a mile and a half above the Nazi stronghold.

An enemy counter-attack three miles southwest of the Appian Way town of Cisterna was repulsed.

Other Planes Destroyed

In addition to the 63 planes knocked down many others were said to have been destroyed on the ground in heavy raids on four airfields in northeastern Italy.

Hard fighting raged all along the southern Fifth Army front. Patrols were active on the Eighth Army front.

The airfields attacked were at Villarba, Mangiao, Lavarino and Udine.

In one of the war's greatest single air conflicts, American Thunderbolts performing escort service on this mission shot down 36 enemy planes. One Thunderbolt was lost.

This aerial thrust into northeastern Italy was an allied answer to the large groups of German bombers which finally have come out of hiding and have been attacking shipping around the Anzio bridgehead.

ately on both land fronts and in ately on bot hland fronts and in the air, the Germans apparently were preparing for eventual withdrawal from Rome. Italians who fled from the capital said the major German forces had left after sowing explosives and mines.

The American tank and infantry flanking movement around Cassino was made possible by American engineers who spanned German-made floods in the Rapido river bottom with a log bridge and corduroy road built under enemy shellfire.

Take Mountain Town

In 48 hours of flaming battle, the Americans cracked forward ramparts of the Gustav line, capturing two hills, a small mountain village, an Italian graveyard which the enemy had converted into a strong point, and more than 100 prisoners.

A dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Hal Boyle said as a result of this thrust "the Germans face the choice of a quick counter-attack or another defensive withdrawal to the mountains behind the entrance to the Cassina corridor to Rome."

Yesterday's headquarters communique said four towns in the Anzio area were firmly in allied hands—Bordo Montello, eight miles northeast of the harbor town; Campo Morto, eight miles northeast; and Centumera and Carroceto on the Anziato way running due north.

In more than a week of action, allied forces in the beachhead have been unable to cut the Appian Way. William Stoneman,

BRIGGS DENIES LETTER CHARGE

Former Aid to Sec. Ickes Enters Not Guilty Plea to Indictment.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—George N. Briggs pleaded innocent today to charges he forged the celebrated "Hopkins letter."

Appearing to answer federal indictments which alleged forgery, false pretense and use of the mails to defraud, Briggs, former confidential aid to Interior Secretary Ickes, entered a disclaimer to all these charges.

His attorneys then asked for and were granted three weeks in order to file such motions or demurrers as they might decide to offer preliminary to trial.

The 55-year-old Briggs, extremely serious and subdued, answered to the charges in a voice that was almost inaudible.

The indictments alleged he faked the so-called "Hopkins letter" which created a furore when it was made public by C. Nelson Sparks, Akron, O., Republican leader and author of the anti-Willkie book, "One-Man—Wendell Willkie."

The letter, on White House stationery, bore the name of Harry Hopkins and was worded to give an impression some sort of understanding existed between Hopkins and Willkie.

Hopkins branded the letter a forgery, Willkie called it absurd. Briggs said he was a victim of "power politics."

HITLER GOES BACK TO OLD RED THEME

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 31—Adolf Hitler apparently has discarded the line he took a month ago—that the war will end without a victor—and returned to his old theme that only Soviet Russia or Nazi Germany can win the struggle.

In a grim New Year's message Dec. 31, the Nazi fuehrer asserted, "in this war there will be no victors and losers, but merely survivors and annihilated.

Yesterday, on the 11th anniversary of his rule, he declared, "from this fight can emerge only one victor, and this will be either Germany or Soviet Russia. A German victory means the preservation of Europe, and a Soviet victory Europe's annihilation."

Hitler declared high explosive and incendiary bombs, instead of bringing about Germany's collapse, "will create that hard state which has been slated by providence to shape European history during the coming centuries."

He said the question facing both England and the United States "no longer is whether they want or are able after this war to fight Bolshevism, but whether they will be able to defend themselves against Bolshevism in their own countries."

Tully Twp. Sets Honor Roll Event

Tully township will dedicate a township honor roll, bearing the names of 69 men and women from that township in military services, in a public program Wednesday night at 8 in the Martel school auditorium.

The board, which measures three by six feet, is a community project, with the township trustees, Fred Baldinger, Ellis Kennedy and Elmer Gumther, taking care of the expense of materials. Most of the work on the board was done by J. L. Shumaker and Hiram Carris, according to Fred Baldinger, who is acting as chairman for the dedication program.

There will be talks by Otto Milk of Caledonia and Rev. Charles H. Edgar of Iberia. Music, group singing and a Flag drill by pupils of the first and second grade will be among the program features. There will be no admission charge.

German Colonists Flee Baltic States As Reds Forge Ahead

Russian Advance Sweeps Up 50 More Towns in Area Held by Germans Near Leningrad.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 31—German colonists were reported fleeing from the Baltic states today as the Red army which yesterday swept up 50 more towns and hamlets between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Peipus, raced toward Kingisepp, last rail station short of the Estonian frontier on the line to Narva.

Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad army lunged to within 7½ miles of Kingisepp with capture of the rail junction of Weimarn, only 17 miles from the Estonian border, a Soviet communique announced. The village of Kotly, 16 miles above Veimarn also was taken.

The Moscow radio said German colonists were fleeing with retreating Nazi troops.

In the Lake Ilmen sector 60 miles to the south, Another Red army was driving toward the Leningrad-Pskov railway, after seizing Velikoe Selo, 17 miles southeast of Luga. Other Soviet units menaced Bateskaya, from where a spur line runs to Luga, 18 miles to the west.

In the Novosokolniki area still farther south, Gen. Markian M. Popov's second Baltic army was reported to have driven to within less than 60 miles of Latvia. Moscow said more than 2,000 Germans were killed in the fighting for Novosokolniki, which fell Saturday.

The Russian units which cleared the final stretch of the Moscow-Leningrad trunk line Saturday also continued to forge westward.

A German broadcast said the Russian had made fresh breakthroughs in some sectors below the middle Dniepr river in the Ukraine and broadcast mentioned "heavy defensive struggles."

The Nazis claimed strong Soviet forces had been encircled south of Pogrebische in the southwestern Ukraine. The Russians said Saturday they had given ground to German counterattacks east of Vinitsa.

A German communique later admitted the Russians were advancing southwest of Cherkassy and southeast of Belaya Tserkov, but declared the Nazis had scored an important victory south of Pogrebischche in a six-day battle with the wiping out of more than 10 Soviet infantry divisions and several tank corps. The Germans said they took 6,800 prisoners, killed 8,000 Russians, and captured or destroyed several hundred tanks and 600 guns.

A dispatch from the Novosokolniki front said the troops were making good progress through German lines but that infantrymen were wading through deep snow which soaked their felt boots and greatcoats, slowing their advance.

The Germans were offering stubborn resistance in steel and concrete fort fortresses and along thickly mined roads, the dispatch said. The Russians repulsed 36 counterattacks of forces up to regimental strength before taking Novosokolniki and their advance continued in the west and northwest.

SCIOTO PLANT CONTROL WORK CHANGING HANDS

Protection, Maintenance Taken Over by Engineers.

Protection and maintenance work at the Scioto Ordnance Plant will pass tonight from the U. S. Rubber Co., which operated the plant for the ordnance department, to the corps of engineers, which is gradually taking over control of the plant area. The changeover details were worked out by the ordnance department, the rubber company and the engineers in recent weeks.

Officers estimated some 150 firemen and policemen and scores of workers performing railroad maintenance work, electrical and carpenter maintenance work, boiler operations and mechanical maintence work are affected by the change.

The corps of engineers will not necessarily use much of the plant area for its own purposes, but will make its facilities available to any other branches of the military service that might need them, or possibly even to private concerns for war-related purposes.

Meanwhile, the U. S. Rubber Co. and the ordnance department are continuing to wind up affairs of the former operations, involving inventory, salvage and bookkeeping work.

Woman in Hospital After Cutting Scrape

A 23-year-old Negro woman is in the City hospital and seven other persons are in the City prison as the result of a cutting scrape at 822 Kenton avenue early Sunday morning. The victim, Elizabeth Gray, 22, of 221 Cass avenue is in "fair" condition today. Her throat was slashed.

Charges of cutting with intent to wound have been filed by Police Chief William E. Marks against Katie Mae Green, 21, of 688 Hocking street. Ella Holt, 55, of the Kenton avenue address, was charged with operating a disorderly house, and disorderly conduct charges have been filed against William Canada, 31, of 237 Senate stret, John Lee, 40, of 672 Hocking street, Albert Harris, 29, Lloyd Simpson 31, and Jerry Jones, 33, all of 822 Kenton avenue.

According to the story told to police, the cutting scrape resulted from an argument between Elizabeth Gray and Katie May Green. The injured woman was taken to the hospital in the M. H. Gunder & Sons ambulance, where she became unconscious upon her arrival from loss of blood.

The two women and five men were arraigned in municipal court shortly before noon today. All pleaded not guilty and hearings were set for Tuesday.

JAP CONTROL PLANS MAPPED

U. S. Looks Ahead for Methods To Check Foe's Aggression.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—The American government's determination to impose a just but pitiless peace on Japan has been strengthened and hardened by the enemy's ruthless treatment of prisoners, it was learned today, and some ranking authorities are advocating a three-point program to strip the Japanese of their economic ability ever to make war again.

The main points of this program are:

1. Deprive the Japanese of all heavy industries which can be readily converted to munitions production.

2. Permit them to operate no merchant marine or commercial air fleets and to possess no ships larger than 1,000 tons capacity. This would limit their seafaring activities to fishing and small-scale trading.

3. Allow them to engage fully in farming necessary to support their population.

Strip Japs of Empire

Post war measures on which the United States has already agreed with its allies in the Pacific and Asia are to strip the Japs of their empire built up through half a century of aggression and to punish war criminals such as those military officials responsible for atrocities.

In addition there is belief in naval circles that the United States should control the Bonin

THREE OTHER GERMAN CITIES HIT IN RAIDS

RAF Blow at Capital Follows Heavy Sunday Attack by U. S.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 31 — United States Liberators, escorted by Thunderbolts, bombed military objectives in the Pas-De-Calais area of France today, army headquarters announced.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 31 — Hundreds of RAF bombers smashed at Berlin again last night with a holocaust of fire and explosives in history's greatest sustained aerial offensive, which left the Nazi capital and three other great industrial cities aflame and heaped with rubble.

It was the third terrific blow in four nights upon Berlin, and Mosquito bombers darted in after the heavy bombers to add to the spreading ruin.

An ominous silence fell over all Germany in the wake of four days of night-and-day bombings, including powerful American raids Sunday on Brunswick and Hannover and a record U. S. bomber blow at Frankfurt Saturday.

Communications between Sweden and Berlin, broken Sunday, were not restored until midday today, and the first dispatch reaching Stockholm said last night's attack caused "great damage."

12th Year of Nazi Rule

Thus Germany today began her 12th year under Nazi rule with the homeland strewn with debris and death.

Night raiders stabbed at other objectives in central and western Germany. The entire night's work which also included mine-laying operations, cost the RAF 33 planes—the smallest loss in the last four Berlin attacks.

The first British announcement on last night's Berlin raid failed to give the tonnage dropped but it likely was at least 1,500 long tons, about average for the heavy assaults since the battle of Berlin began last Nov. 18.

That would mean approximately 21,000 long tons of bombs have cascaded on the city in an actual bombing time of less than 10 hours.

Large fleets of allied bombers and fighters kept the air battle roaring on today, striking out toward northern France.

The German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau said the RAF bombed large areas of Berlin last night, and indicated the center of the city was hard hit. German fighters met the raiders at the coast, but many of the bombers took new routes to reach Berlin, it added.

Up to mid-afternoon, the German radio had made no mention of the Berlin attack in broadcasts to German listeners. In a broadcast beamed abroad, Berlin declared at least 44 RAF bombers had been shot down.

Last night's blow against the reich capital was the third in four nights, and the 14th since beginning of the "battle of Berlin" two and a half months ago.

The RAF night shift took over before the last of a great American daylight fleet had returned Sunday from dealing a heavy blow to Messerschmitt plants at Brunswick and giving violent pasting to Hannover's great freight yards and locomotive, tank and aircraft parts factories.

Frankfurt Mortally Wounded

Franfurt, pounded by a record American daylight assault Saturday, was listed in Stockholm reports as mortally wounded.

Interspersed with the major blows against Germany were daylight attacks on the French invasion coast.

German losses aloft were as grievous as on the ground. The four big days cost the Nazi air force at least 215 first line fighters.

Ordnance Plant Changes Listed

Numerous Scioto Personnel Heads Go to New Posts; R. P. F. Liddell Succeeds J. M. Livermore as Factory Manager

Additional changes have taken place in the U. S. Rubber Co. organization at the Scioto Ordnance Plant in the last three weeks as that company has tapered its schedule of operations in compliance with instructions from the ordnance department of the U. S. Army.

One of the men to leave was J. M. Livermore, factory manager, who came here as engineer for the U. S. Rubber Co. in connection with the purchase and installation of machinery for the plant's original assignment.

When the plant began operations he remained in the Scioto organization, and has been factory manager since J. W. Miller left several months ago.

Goes to New Post

Mr. Livermore has been transferred to the company's naval ordnance plant at Charlotte, N. C., on an important assignment with that operation.

Mr. Livermore has been succeeded as factory manager by R. P. F. Liddell, who has been here since the company set up its organization at Scioto. He came from the Detroit tire division plant in April of 1942 as resident engineer in connection with the construction of the plant and became plant engineer when operations were begun. His home is on East Center street.

Other changes that have already taken place or are scheduled are as follows:

W. L. Jensen, service manager, will leave Feb. 1 to take up new duties as manager of industrial relations in the Passaic, N. J., plant of the company's mechanical goods division.

S. T. Edgerton, superintendent of materials handling, will return to the company's general purchasing division in New York on or about Feb. 15.

Why You Shouldn't Keep Used Fats in GLASS

DON'T DO IT, LADY! A glass jar is liable to break when you pour in the hot fat. Or . . . when your butcher packs a batch of containers in a big drum or barrel for shipment, the glass ones are almost sure to get broken. When that happens, the precious fats so urgently needed to make gunpowder and battlefield medicines are difficult to use. Instead of glass, use a tin can . . . any kind will do. When it's full, rush it to your meat dealer. For every pound, he will give you 4c and two free meat ration points. Start saving today!

HOGS STILL FLOOD YARDS AT CHICAGO

By The Associated Press

Jan. 31 — Although hogs have been ... under the per... plan, inaugurated ... ago, selling agents ... thinly clearing the ... swine, the war ... on said today. ... ers of hogs and the ... cooperated in ... congestion at the ... packers have ... However, they ... weights smaller than ... immediately prior to ... of the permit sys... system has not run ... to be thoroughly ... to be the opinion of many observers. However, they said it now appears killers are inclined to reduce purchases along with reduced receipts.

The reason for this changed policy in buying and paying prices has not been determined. One packer said their establishment had bought as many hogs last week as in the previous week and now had a three day slaughter requirement on hand. His opinion was that the plan was now and had many wrinkles which would have to be ironed out before it became the solution to the congestion problem.

The hog marketing committee stated the plan is working out "very well" as far as spreading out shipments over the last week is concerned. Farmers have shipped only after receiving a permit from their selling agents. One observer said perhaps the quotas would have to be cut down.

The cattle market was generally 25 cents lower last week, with fed steers and yearlings predominating in the run and topping at $15.50. Hogs weighing under 240 pounds and over 220 pounds were 50 cents higher, while 200 to 240 pounds were supported at the top of $15.75. The 300 to 350 pound weights were included in the government support program on Thursday, Jan. 27. All classes of slaughter lambs were in broad demand. The week's top of $16.35 was paid for good and choice westerns.

Boards To Get Gas for 'Hardship Cases'

Beginning Tuesday, local ration boards are being given discretionary authority by the office of price administration to issue, subject to quota restrictions, limited "personal necessity" gasoline rations in situations not provided for in the regulations where lack of gasoline would cause undue hardships, the OPA district office at Columbus has announced.

Each board will be given a small monthly quota based upon the number of "A" books and automobile registration for each county. While the boards will have full authority to act at their own discretion in passing upon hardship cases, they will be required to stay within quotas.

While it does not define personal hardship situations, the new ruling does specify that the provision does not apply to gasoline needed for occupational purposes.

CLIP THIS CHART

...AND FOLLOW THESE MID-WINTER SERVICE SUGGESTIONS

To help you protect your investment and keep your car or truck operating efficiently, we have listed below a number of mid-winter suggestions prepared by our service engineers. The safest plan is to let your nearby Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer inspect and service your vehicle regularly. He has trained mechanics, tools and equipment to detect minor troubles and correct them before major expense develops.

TO KEEP YOUR CAR OR TRUCK OPERATING ECONOMICALLY...

1. Too heavy an oil contributes to hard starting in cold weather . . . a strain on the battery. Change oil to proper grade if necessary.
2. Have the strength of anti-freeze mixture checked frequently to be sure it gives adequate protection during coldest snaps.
3. Check all connections in cooling system to prevent loss of anti-freeze.
4. Ask your dealer to check specific gravity of your battery. Have it re-charged if advisable.
5. Starting, lighting, ignition systems should be gone over during the winter to be sure all connections are clean and tight.
6. Both transmission and differential should have proper winter lubricant to protect moving parts in extremely cold weather.
7. Steering systems are under abnormal strain during winter because of ice and snow. Have your dealer check the front wheel alignment.
8. If it hasn't been done recently, a complete engine tune-up may be advisable for easier starting and greater economy.
9. Windshield wipers get extra hard usage in winter. Examine the condition of the blades to be sure they are efficient.
10. Remember, slush and snow tends to wash oils and greases away where moving parts are exposed. Thorough lubrication at regular intervals is wise.

USE CHRYSLER CORPORATION PARTS

PARTS DIVISION PRODUCTS

LET THE MAN WHO Knows Your Car HELP YOU CARE FOR IT

Don't replace any part of your car or truck that can be repaired . . . but if replacement is necessary, let your dealer install factory-engineered and inspected parts designed for your car. You can identify these parts by the MOPAR trade-mark pictured above.

SUGGESTION TO REPAIR SHOPS

If you need parts of any kind for Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler cars, see a dealer who handles that make. For Dodge truck parts, see a Dodge dealer.

Save Your Tires by
1. Switching them regularly
2. Checking Wheel alignment
3. Driving under 35 M. P. H.

THIS FARM BOY GAVE ALL...

You are only asked to lend your money!

LIEUTENANT (j.g.) PAUL BAKER, Navy pilot, with five Jap aircraft to his credit in the day's fighting, was hovering over the aircraft carrier Lexington at dusk, awaiting the signal to land. His gas tanks were nearly empty. Suddenly, over the horizon Jap planes were spotted. It was feared the Japs might discover the Lexington and try a suicide attempt. Baker's order to land never came. His landing lights might have given the Lexington's position away. Without hesitation, Lieutenant Baker turned his plane away from the big carriet and headed for the open sea, luring the Japs after him. He disappeared into the night, never to be seen again. The Lexington was safe.

You can buy extra Bonds!

Paul Baker had a big decision to make. It took him about two seconds:

We, at home, also have a decision to make. We are asked to buy extra War Bonds at once. Our boys at the front are depending on us in this Fourth War Loan. Our patriotic impulse is to say "yes" first and look around for the money afterwards. Let us obey that impulse! It will do us good in more ways than one!

Paul Baker sized his situation up in two seconds . . . and acted. We, whose duty is so trifling by comparison, need scarcely more time in which to do ours!

Think! We are asked to make an investment, not a sacrifice! We are asked to invest the money we would normally use to replace automobiles or farm machinery or repair buildings and fences. We are asked to establish a depreciation reserve which will be available for replacements after the war. We are asked to build up a financial reserve for unfavorable years that may come later, or for the education of the children, unexpected hospital bills, or the payment of taxes and debts.

War Bonds are the best form of financial reserve ever offered you. Your money helps finance the war. By postponing unnecessary spending you speed production of planes and munitions to win the war. The gradual expenditure of your reserve after the war will provide jobs for returning soldiers and help stabilize the nation's finances in the postwar adjustment period.

Ask yourself: Have I a single valid reason why I should not buy extra War Bonds?

Then, like Paul Baker, make your decision and act!

Get ready for the day when Johnny comes marching home!

If you have a boy in the service, think what it will mean to have him come back and share with you the joy of equipping the farm with the best in tractors and other machinery. Think what it can mean for you to have the cash to put the children through college. Think what it can mean, a few years hence, to have new farm buildings or a new home or complete modern conveniences about the place.

To thousands upon thousands of farm and ranch owners who have bought extra War Bonds, these things are assured. For the first time in their lives they are going to be able to have the things they've wanted. Some of them are your neighbors. How about you?

You never get less than you lend—and you can get ⅓ more than you invest

When held 10 years, Series E War Bonds yield 2.9% interest, compounded semi-annually. You get back $4 for every $3.

CASH IF YOU NEED IT

Of course no one should cash a Bond unless he has to; but if an emergency comes along, your War Bonds are like money in the bank. Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. Don't hold back a single dollar unnecessarily from the purchase of War Bonds. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED.

The Fourth War Loan is on! Your dollars are needed as much by Uncle Sam today as you will be needing them tomorrow.

A Warning from the Airport

IN THESE days of aviation's vital and steadily growing importance we can't imagine advertising more unfavorable to Marion than the report that an Army airplane was mired in the mud of the city's airport. This is particularly true when the plane, carrying parts urgently needed for wartime purposes, was held up for a day in its schedule.

In fact, calling the circumstance "unfavorable" may well be regarded as an understatement, for a happening of that sort could turn out to be an obstacle to Marion's future recognition in the mapping of airplane routes. That would indeed be serious for any city which aspires to share in the vast expansion of air transportation which is certain to be a major post-war development.

This one rather humiliating incident may not be that costly. We hope not, but beyond doubt recurrence of such defective airport service would do virtually irreparable damage to the city's aviation prospects. So let us hope that what happened to this Army plane will serve as a warning that will awaken city officials and cause them to provide adequate airport facilities. This they should do without delay, for Marion is the location of an important depot supplying military aircraft with equipment and repair parts as well as other Army installations and numerous plants doing war work, so that calls for prompt emergency deliveries are likely to come frequently. Marion cannot afford to have more delays resulting from lack of suitable landing or take-off accommodations.

Recently the chairman of city council's airport committee received a letter from the head of the Chamber of Commerce committee in which this subject was dealt with clearly and comprehensively. The needs of the present and future were covered fully and no doubt was left as to the absolute necessity of maintaining an airport that would assure convenience and safety for planes of all types. The letter actually pointed to the existing conditions which set the stage for just such difficulties as the Army plane encountered a few days ago. It also called attention to the fact that in the past, other airplanes on missions to Marion had been landed at ports of nearby cities in order to avoid the risk of running into trouble here.

The letter was based upon the results of extensive study and inquiry on the part of the Chamber of Commerce committee and so should be of substantial value to council. And now, since there has been an actual happening at the airport to provide convincing evidence in support of the Chamber of Commerce committee's recommendations, council will be sadly lacking in foresight and sense of duty if it fails to take action promptly. Beyond all question, providing Marion with a first class airport should have a top spot on council's program of service.

One Month Gone

AT the end of the first month of 1944, Rome is being approached by land, but the approach to Berlin and Tokyo still is barred.

Berlin is reported virtually destroyed by aerial bombing. In Europe, the focus of important forthcoming action, the Allies have placed the enemy at a disadvantage in Italy south of Rome by a successful landing behind his lines. Russia continues to advance German air power is weak in Italy, insufficient in Russia and not strong enough in defense of Germany, itself, to keep Britain and United States bomber fleets from carrying out all reasonable missions.

The greatest concentration of military power ever conceived is being developed on Great Britain as a base against Germany in Europe. The situation in the Atlantic is sufficiently improved, despite the coming invasion, to justify a British announcement that it has spared battle units for use against Japan in the Pacific. Germany's token navy has all but been destroyed, with the exception of its submarines, which are counter-balanced by Allied naval power, still increasing.

The aerial barrage of the "invasion coast" from the river Elbe southward to Brest continues on what amounts to a daily schedule, with groups of specialized planes performing what could not be duplicated by massing all available artillery pieces within medium range. While reports from inside the continent continue meager, common sense justifies conviction that the Germans and their dependents are no less empty as to suspense than were the British and the French four years ago when they knew in January that something would happen somewhere eventually, but were unable to know where to face the showdown.

So They Say—

The greatest single task facing us now is to produce the necessary equipment for the invasion of Europe—not just on time, but ahead of time.—WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson.

The roots (of Nazism) have gone too deep. Unless we can destroy this evil at its roots we are fighting in vain and shall have to fight again.—British Ambassador Lord Halifax.

Every new product creates greater wealth than it destroys, for the human need which made it possible gives to the new a greater market than the old ever enjoyed.—Dr. H. E. Fritz, B. F. Goodrich Co. research director.

News Behind the News

Weaknesses Are Seen in Various Soldier Vote Plans; Roosevelt Believed To Hold Edge.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—So much political nonsense has been heaped upon the soldier vote question, it is practically impossible to find the solid fact.

The administration seems to have [illegible] completely confused [illegible] managed to build up the popular notion that its federal measure is a soldier vote bill while the opposition states-voting measure would prevent soldiers from voting.

The radio and news headlines have helped particularly to build up this fallacy originally conceived by the radical groups. The truth is no man in public life in any quarter would dare oppose the right of the soldier to vote. The only question on both sides is how to make the most of it for your side.

What G. O. P. Fears

What most Republicans fear is that War Secretary Stimson and Navy Secretary Knox will build up a fourth term drive for Mr. Roosevelt in the Army and Navy and run away with the bulk of the 11,000,000 votes involved.

Stimson and Knox are both Republicans, but have allied themselves to the Roosevelt cause as cabinet members and, therefore, are personally interested in having the President reelected to continue their jobs. The power of military officers over the men gives great controlling authority which well could be exercised in Mr. Roosevelt's behalf.

Apparently what the administration fears is handling of the vote by the states where Republican or anti-administration governors are in control.

Fears for Barkley

By this Green-Lucas bill, Mr. Roosevelt also might save a number of Democratic senators and congressmen who otherwise could not be reelected. He is supposed to have called two or three southern senators down to the White House and told them he must have the bill in order to save Senator Barkley, his floor leader.

Apparently Kentucky law requires a state constitutional amendment for soldier voting, and this could not possibly be enacted before November. Thus, under the states rights bill, Barkley could not possibly get any soldier votes, and the recent Kentucky elections showed he needs to get votes somewhere.

Neither method provides a satisfactory soldier vote system. The Roosevelt-endorsed bill, for instance, is only a half-a-vote bill for the soldier. He could ballot only for federal officials, not state, county, and local offices in his own home district.

Blank Ballot

Furthermore it does not provide a "ballot" except in blank. All soldiers know the Roosevelt name as that of their commander-in-chief but few know the names of their senators and congressmen. How many would split the ticket in Ohio, for instance, and write in the name of Taft for senator if confronted only by a blank page?

No doubt more soldiers would vote under the Green-Lucas bill than under the states rights bill, but no one can remotely guess how many. However there is likely to be a presidential contest on the constitutionality of whoever would be elected under that bill. No losing candidate will overlook the [illegible] possibilities.

Called Unconstitutional

A Republican constitutional lawyer, Milliken of Colorado, contends the bill is clearly unconstitutional on two points (name blanks and voting for candidates rather than electors.) The defense of leading advocates on this point varies from the weak position of Senator Lucas who claims the congress has assumed "war powers" to the still weaker notion of a Republican advocate who said:

"To hell with the Constitution on this question."

No wonder house Republicans laughed at the President's message asserting his position was only that of "an interested citizen." The clear, underlying issue is whether he will be allowed liberties with the soldier vote and probably the election.

The laughter may be short-lived as the Republicans seem to be losing the publicity argument, and at least have devised no popular means of stopping him.

Public Cold To Service Act

By Jack Stinnett
Washington Correspondent.

IN spite of Secretary of War Stimson's advocacy of a national service act and the President's recommendation, observers on Capitol Hill believe it has only a ghost of a chance.

The reason: The public isn't enthusiastic about the idea.

A canvass of congressional mail shows only a trickle of interest. Opinion is divided.

Those who feel there should be such a law, so congressmen tell me, are mostly service men and their families who feel we are letting the boys down on the home front. They see in a national service act a possibility of ending strikes.

In addition to general disinterest from the voters, organized labor, which operates one of the most powerful influences on congress, is opposed. Their fear is that it will nullify union strength and reduce the individual worker to a state where he will have no right to say where he works, at what wages or under what conditions.

Men fighting on battlefronts in the fever infested jungles, in the mud and muck of Italy or monotonously guarding frozen outposts in the Arctic, can't feel that this would be any injustice to home front workers.

That, in substance, is the way Secretary Stimson has summed it up.

There are some observers here who believe, however, that neither President Roosevelt nor Secretary Stimson had any idea that a national service act would be enacted, unless conditions get much worse. The President hedged on his recommendation by saying he wouldn't favor it unless other legislation were enacted protecting the worker against abuses which might grow out of it. Since Secretary Stimson was speaking for men in service, there was no reason for his hedging.

National service bills are pending in congress, but have actually or in effect been pigeonholed.

The only thing that would bring them out would be another outburst of strikes or threatened strikes. Neither the President, other war leaders, or even congress itself, is in any humor to put up with further work stoppages, but observers are positive that conditions would have to get much worse before a drastic national service act could find enough votes to put it over.

What is more likely is that anti-strike laws will be tightened and labor leaders will see that dissatisfaction is ironed out before it reaches the work-stoppage stage.

There is a feeling in Washington that the President's real purpose has been accomplished.

"WHITE COLLAR MAN"

Voluntary Cooperation Solved Rail Problem

By M. J. Gormley, Executive Assistant, Association of American Railroads.

> The performance of railroads in the national war emergency has been outstandingly good and is so recognized. What is not well known is that performance was made possible by a triumph of cooperative organizations in the years preceding the war. This article is an abstract of a statement before a senate subcommittee investigating rail transportation. It explains how railroads have been able to handle more than 70 per cent of inter-city freight transportation and more than 93 per cent of army freight without a breakdown.

BETWEEN 1916 and 1938 the total number of miles of railroad line in the United States decreased by 17,000 miles, or about 7 per cent. Offsetting this decline somewhat, there was an increase of 5,000 miles in second, third and fourth main track, and an increase of nearly 14,000 miles in yard tracks, passing tracks and sidings.

At the same time, there was a decrease from 1916 to 1938 of more than 550,000 freight cars, 17,500 locomotives, and nearly 13,000 passenger train cars. This shrinkage may be ascribed in part to the long depression period that began in 1929, and in part to the growing competition of other agencies of transport.

Decreases in railroad traffic made it unnecessary for the railroads to replace their motive power and equipment as rapidly as it wore out. The number and proportion of locomotives and cars out of service undergoing or awaiting repairs increased, since there was no need to spend money to repair equipment not needed.

Prior to our entrance into the war, the greatest volume of freight traffic handled by railroads in a single year was in 1929, when 1,339,000,000 tons of revenue freight originated on Class 1 railroads and ton-miles of freight aggregated 447 billions. That volume of traffic represented a growth over the peak war years of 1918 of about 6 per cent in tonnage and about 10 per cent in ton miles.

Since the start of the war in Europe, rail freight traffic has increased sharply, reaching a new all-time high with respect to tonnage in 1942 and again in 1943. Because of increased length of haul, ton-miles broke all previous records in 1941, again in 1942 and still again in 1943. Combining the factors of greater tonnage and lengthening hauls per ton, revenue ton-miles of freight in 1942 and 1943 will average 87 per cent above 1937-1941, 58 per cent above 1925-1929, and 77 per cent above 1916-1920.

INCLUDED in the great increases in railroad traffic are a number of special and unusual situations. Movement of petroleum to the east has gone up from almost nothing to a peak averaging more than a million barrels a day. Before Pearl Harbor New England got approximately 70 per cent of its coal by boat. By 1943 this movement had declined nearly 50 per cent and had been shifted in part to all-rail routes and in part to rail haul to New York piers for water movement northward.

Box car and other transportation facilities have been taxed by the combination of large storage stocks of old grain, with heavy withdrawals because of war need, and a large new crop moving rapidly to market. Shipments of lumber from the Pacific coast area to the east, formerly moved in vessels, have been shifted to railroads. Sugar and other products from the Caribbean and South and Central America has had to be moved by rail from Gulf ports to North Atlantic ports; it formerly went all the way by ship.

Increased rail movements of coal to Canada, Cuba, the far west and other unusual destinations; heavy movements of imported ores and rail service to new war plants, army camps and bases have been other wartime problems.

From a percentage standpoint, increases in railroad passenger traffic have been greater than those in freight service. While freight ton-miles in 1943 were 2 1-2 times those of 1938, passenger-miles were four times as great. This has been the result of a number of factors: Heavy troop movements, heavy furlough travel, visits of friends and relatives to camps, restricted use of private automobiles, increased travel of government officials and others on business connected with the war effort, increased civilian travel and movement of workers from one area to another.

IF the industry had done no better in utilizing cars and locomotives than it did in 1929, roads would have needed 1,500,000 more freight cars and about 20,000 more locomotives in 1943. Stated differently, if 1929 car and locomotive performance averages had not been improved upon, half of the 1943 traffic would not have moved at all. One car today is turning out nearly as many ton-miles of service as two cars did in 1929. The same is true of freight locomotives. This is due only in part to the improvements that have been made in railroad plant and methods in the past two decades. These great gains could not have been accomplished and could not be sustained were it not for the effect, organized cooperation of the shippers of the United States, the army, navy and other government departments, the office of defense transportation and the interstate commerce commission.

Organized cooperation of shippers goes back 20 years to the formation of the first of the regional shippers advisory boards, in Minneapolis. This board was organized in recognition of the fact that shippers have an important part to play in the efficient production of transportation. The freight car spends about as much of its time in the hands of the shippers being loaded and unloaded as it does in the hands of the railroads being switched or moved. The shippers in the northwest, therefore, organized themselves to cooperate with the railroads of that section in producing better and more efficient transportation.

The work of this first shippers advisory board was so successful that the idea spread rapidly throughout the country until there were 13 such boards covering the United States. Subsequently, these boards formed a national association to deal with matters extending beyond the territory of any one board.

As part of their organization, these boards have formed a total of some 500 local car efficiency committees, covering more than 700 important shipping centers. Through these committees the shippers themselves are helping to see that cars are kept moving and are used for the purpose for which they were intended—transportation and not storage.

The Men

We'll Admit the Drunks Are S[illegible] But Women Are Worse.

By DAMON RUNYON

BECAUSE men are bums, women ought to be bums. [illegible] the only answer many of the [illegible] of my discourse on the rum [illegible] [illegible] which has reached [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] from frequenting pub[illegible]

"Why don't you say something [illegible] drunken men?" the girls are say[illegible] "They are worse than the women."

I have said something about [illegible] men. I have said they are bums. B[illegible] not worse than the drunken women. [illegible] bad, but not half as bad as the drunk[illegible] especially when the drunkenness [illegible] matter of public display, in the b[illegible]

In any event, I am disappointed [illegible] tude of the women that the misconduct [illegible] men is any excuse for their own dep[illegible] behavior. I am disappointed but n[illegible] because as I have said before women [illegible] sense. I now will qualify that by say[illegible] women.

THEY are supposed to be better [illegible] morally and spiritually. They are [illegible] to be the moral guardians of our home[illegible] structors of the rising generation [illegible] They are supposed to have a keene[illegible] the code of conventionality than me[illegible] are supposed to be examples in [illegible] the men.

But for the women, all men would [illegible] right from taw instead of gradually [illegible] bumdom as they drift beyond the [illegible] women. I will admit that in bygone [illegible] great majority of our women have a[illegible] the responsibilities of their sex as I [illegible] these responsibilities above, and by [illegible] and example have given us fine, clean [illegible]

But it is not the past I am thinking [illegible] It is the future. I say if the elbow [illegible] among women continues to increase [illegible] is anything in heredity, they may [illegible] spawning generations of chronic tipplers. If [illegible] current example of many of them sp[illegible] their children, we may find bad man[illegible] general moral delinquency characteristic of [illegible] Americans of tomorrow.

I gave up on drunken men long ago. If [illegible] age in which it is demonstrated on eve[illegible] that sobriety has its fine rewards and [illegible] enness its severe penalties, a man in[illegible] knocking himself cockeyed with booze, [illegible] tures of mine possibly can avail. But [illegible] may be some hope for the women as [illegible] spread drunkenness in public among [illegible] comparatively new and undoubtedly [illegible] the privilege they received with [illegible] drinking at the bars on their own.

IT MIGHT be if this privilege were [illegible] from them and they were handled [illegible] matter of liquor as we would handle lit[illegible] dren or semi-idiots, the drunkenness among [illegible] ladies would be abated. I am sure no [illegible] suasion will move them, and while I w[illegible] advocate anything as uncouth as a re[illegible] the stocks or the whipping post of o[illegible] fathers, I feel something slightly drastic [illegible] dicated by this situation.

However, I will concede the possibility [illegible] am a little old fashioned and eventua[illegible] become accustomed to the spectacle of [illegible] looking gray-haired lady falling to [illegible] on her kisser from a stool at a public [illegible] hearing cute young dames babbli[illegible] herently over their drams and mav[illegible] gagging with the guys adjacent to them [illegible] mahogany, unmindful of the time, the [illegible] the guy.

And once familiar with these scenes, I [illegible] ably will cease pointing with alarm a[illegible] no more of them than I do now of th[illegible] an elderly gentleman suspended by [illegible] from a bar and making a damphool of [illegible] by his conversation, or of a young fello[illegible] in a doorway giving forth an aroma of [illegible] that makes all the dogs in the neigh[illegible]

Dewey Shows Substantial Gain in Poll of G. O. P. Voters on Choice of Nominee

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 31—The popularity of Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York as a G. O. P. presidential nominee has increased substantially in the past six weeks. Wendell Willkie's popular standing shows a slight drop.

These are the highlights of the latest survey among the rank and file of Republican voters from coast to coast.

Dewey's gains have come in nearly all sections of the country but principally in the Middle Atlantic area which includes New York state. Willkie's gains are New England and he has shown losses in other areas.

General Douglas MacArthur's popularity as a candidate has declined slightly since December. He is third today, with Governor John Bricker of Ohio fourth. Next comes Lieut. Commander Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota.

Voters from coast to coast were shown a list of men most prominently talked about as possible presidential candidates and were asked to indicate their choice today. Based on those who named a Republican, the results show the following standings of the five most popular men:

	Today	Dec.
Dewey	42%	36%
Willkie	23	25
MacArthur	18	15
Bricker	8	10
Stassen	6	6

With the nominating convention only five months off, the Bricker boom has as yet made comparatively little gains outside the East Central area. However, in that area, which will send a large number of delegates to the convention, Bricker is second only to Dewey.

Meanwhile, the MacArthur backers have been busy pushing the candidacy of the General. A national association of MacArthur-for-President clubs was formed in Chicago in mid-January. Future Institute polls will measure the effect which this renewed effort may have on the sentiments of Republican voters.

The first official tests of candidate strength in the Republican party will come in the primaries to be held in New Hampshire in March, and in Wisconsin, New York, Nebraska and Illinois in early April.

Farm Week Sessions To Be Broadcast

Farmers' Week, annual institute for Ohio agriculturalists, sponsored by Ohio State university, is being broadcast over the university's radio station WOSU, which is found at 820 on the dial. The institute is usually held on the campus at Columbus, but travel restrictions have forced abandonment of the project for the duration.

Programs of interest to farmers will be carried from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m. daily Monday through Friday this week. Parts of the radio sessions are being relayed through Station WMRN.

Biggest Quota, Youngest Leader—That's Area 1 War Loan Story

This county is part of an area which shoulders over half of Ohio's Fourth War Loan quota of $672,000,000.

Ohio Area 1, including Marion and 25 other counties, must raise $350,860,000 or 52 per cent of the state goal, to meet its goal between Jan. 18 and Feb. 15.

Roughly, the district is "northeastern" Ohio, with Sandusky, Marion, Steubenville and Conneaut on its corners. Within are industrial centers, like Cleveland and Akron, and the important farm county of Wayne and neighboring counties.

It draws Ohio's biggest War Loan jobs because of its outstanding manufacturing and agricultural resources, and its heavy purchasing power.

It has geographical variety. Here are found Ashtabula county, largest in area in the state, Lake, the smallest; and Cuyahoga, with greatest population, all in a row on Lake Erie.

It claims another Fourth War Loan distinction.

Chairman for Area 1 is John Burge of Cleveland, youngest of Ohio's four area directors. Mr. Burge, a 37-year-old investment banker, took the post after serving as co-chairman in previous drives. He is vice president and treasurer of the Ball, Coons & Co. investment firm.

Herman J. Sheedy, secretary and sales manager of McDonald-Coolidge & Co., is co-chairman, and C. T. (Cy) Burg, sales manager of the Iron Fireman Co., is area promotion supervisor. Both are Clevelanders who worked in past campaigns.

As You Look Back Upon a Funeral . . . .

A funeral service is a tribute to an individual. And the money a family spends for such service is more than anything else, an investment in memory.

That is why good funeral service is something more than a building, a car or two and some other miscellaneous equipment. It also is why so many hours of personal service and attention are given to every family we serve.

It is our desire that in the months and years that follow, our patrons may look back upon memories that will be cherished for their beauty.

Another Birthday Party Given to Aid Polio Sufferers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—A ... peace, ... the nation joined over the week-end in helping President Roosevelt celebrate his birthday by attending benefit functions whose proceeds go to help the sufferers of the national foundation for infantile paralysis.

The President, marking his 62nd anniversary yesterday, spent the week-end ... at the White House, but members of his personal and official family were prominent among those turning out for various celebrations in the capital, held here as elsewhere mostly on Saturday night.

Among the President's birthday gifts was a $240,000 check to help combat infantile paralysis, presented at the executive mansion yesterday by Lady Hardwicke, whose husband, Sir Cedric Hardwicke represented a committee of British artists participating in the motion picture "Forever and A Day." The check represented most of the American net profits from the film, which every major studio in Hollywood and a long list of screen stars and writers had a part in making.

In a Saturday midnight broadcast, the Chief Executive thanked those who had contributed to the foundation's work. Appealed for a fresh outpouring of American dollars in the fourth war loan campaign, and restated the United Nations pledge of "unconditional surrender of our enemies."

His personal physician said the President was in "surprisingly fine shape for a man of 62."

ICKES PLAN HIT BY CONGRESSMAN SMITH

Post-War Public Works Program Called Slave Labor.

Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion spoke out against the post-war public works employment program of Secretary of the Interior Ickes in remarks on the floor of the house of representatives Friday, according to a news report from Washington.

He termed the proposal a program of "slave labor" and charged it would regiment returning soldiers into a labor army. The text of his remarks follows.

"Secretary of the Interior Mr. Ickes, according to a new item in the Jan. 27 Washington Evening Star, has told the President of a blueprint which he has drawn up for a public works program for employing returning soldiers. Is this—politically made work—to be the reward for the sacrifices our soldiers are making? Are our soldiers to be disillusioned by learning that while they were away from their country, fighting and dying to save it, that their opportunity for free employment was destroyed?

"Is this not slave labor when Mr. Ickes is promising to our returning soldiers? Can it be imagined that men whose free employment has been destroyed by the curse of politics and who have been forced thereby to accept employment such as Mr. Ickes suggests are anything but slaves of the state? I declare this is not what our soldiers are fighting for. They are entitled to something better than this when they return to their homeland. They are entitled to be free men and to have free employment where they can enjoy the fruits of their own labor and not be regimented into a labor army by the state."

BOMBING

against an allied toll, up to the last night, of 161 aircraft.

In attacking Brunswick and Hannover yesterday, American airmen downed 91 Nazi planes.

A British-American communique said 20 U. S. bombers and five fighters failed to return yesterday from all operations, including sweeps over northern France and Holland. Four of the missing fighters were American.

Allied guns knocked down an additional dozen enemy planes during these side forays, bringing the total bag for the day to 103.

Yesterday's American aerial task force apparently was at least equal in size to the record-breaking armada of more than 800 U. S. heavy bombers and an estimated 700 American fighters which plastered 1,800 tons of mobs over industrial Frankfurt Saturday.

Escorting American fighters yesterday bagged 45 German planes, setting a new record for the second day in a row. The previous high of 36 in one day was broken Saturday when 42 were downed.

German planes attacking England Saturday night killed at least 26 persons and injured 25 more at scattered points. Three enemy planes were shot down.

LONDON, Jan. 31—U. S. Army headquarters announced today that heavy bombers of the American strategic airforces based in England and Italy had dropped more than 3,000 tons of bombs on the German war machine in the 48 hours ended Sunday.

Microscope Magnifies Six Million Times

By The United Press

AUSTIN, Tex.—University of Texas physicists are using a new electron microscope now to examine fine detail in infinitesimal objects which an ordinary microscope could not distinguish.

Dr. J. M. Kuehne, veteran professor of physics at the university, explained that beams of electrons are hundreds of times smaller than light waves and consequently maintain their accuracy under much stronger magnification. Dr. Kuehne says the electron microscope—which uses the electron beams instead of light beams—can magnify accurately as high as six million times.

"Although the electron beam shadows are themselves invisible," Dr. Kuehne said, "they are very effectively registered on fine grain photographic plates and these easily can be further enlarged by ordinary optical means, until the finest detail recorded in the image can be visually distinguished."

In 1880, Central and South America were the chief exporters of quinine, but the seed was not developed and Java and the Near East came to dominate the field.

Makes His Prime Effort

Britain, he [illegible] lost her position on [illegible] Then he dropped his [illegible] which he hoped [illegible] panic among the [illegible] peoples.

"The question confronting England and the United States hence no longer is whether they want or are able after [illegible] fight Bolshevism but whether they will be able to defend themselves against Bolshevism [illegible] own countries."

That was, I take it, [illegible] an attempt to sow discord among the big three. In effect it suggested German-British-American collaboration to smash our Soviet ally. The master gangster has reached the point where he undoubtedly would make any sort of bargain with the Anglo-American pair in order to left at the Russians. Short of that preposterous suggestion, any kind of plot among the allies would give the wavering reich a shot in the arm.

Hitler is scared, and with reason. Even as he spoke, American warplanes were dumping an awful freight of destruction on the airplane factories of Brunswick and the great rail center of Hanover. And the royal air force gave the fuehrer his direct answer last night when a great fleet of heavy bombers again attacked stricken Berlin, to emphasize the allied determination to destroy this capital of the most evil government the modern world has known—barring the Japanese.

During these assaults the allies shot down 91 of Hitler's precious warplanes, and the Anglo-American air forces in Italy destroyed some 63 more. Thus again was demonstrated the aerial superiority which is blazing the way to the destruction of Nazidom.

Reds Still Gain

Meanwhile the Red army which the fuehrer fears so much continued to rip into his battle line and move steadily forward toward the borders of the reich over the bodies of countless German youth. In the northern Leningrad sector the Muscovites were less than a score of miles from the Estonian frontier, threatening to trap a large retreating Nazi force. Down in the Ukraine the Hitlerites were counterattacking desperately in an effort to save their right wing from being surrounded and destroyed.

Annihilation continued [illegible] the Red dogans [illegible] recently [illegible] are being taken [illegible] the death [illegible] Russians and [illegible] dered and [illegible] stroyed [illegible] territory.

No wonder Hitler [illegible] frightened [illegible] brutality [illegible] try to [illegible] a rupture. Both America and England have [illegible] fury by the [illegible] British and [illegible] We [illegible] Nazidom is now [illegible] not quite [illegible] We're not [illegible] piece of Hitler's civilization for Europe.

Berlin Reports Offensive

(A Berlin broadcast today said a strong British-American offensive had been started from the bridgehead.)

Along the coastal sector of the main fifth army front the British captured Mt. Rotondo, two and a half miles northwest of Castelforte and the 2,000-foot peak of Mt. Jugan three miles northeast of Castelforte.

British warships patrolling along the coast bombarded the [illegible] and German transport moving from the main fifth army front toward the bridgehead.

News from the bridgehead indicated the Germans had dug in for five miles along the Cisterna-Rome railroad from a point two miles north of Cisterna.

The destruction of the 61 Nazi planes over the northeastern airfields of Villaorba, Maniago, Lavariano and Udine brought the total bag in the past four days to 154 against a loss of 19 allied aircraft. Six of the allied aircraft were lost yesterday.

County's War Loan Sales Climb

highlight of its participation in the Fourth War Loan drive.

Good things to eat will go on the auction block for the sake of war bonds, and the event will be the closing feature of the LaRue Community Institute's annual meetings.

Chickens, eggs, cakes and other items from the kitchens and cellars of housewives of the area will be auctioned by Lewis Wickersham. Actually these items will be given away to the person who agrees to buy the most war bonds as each article is auctioned.

Speakers on Program

To augment the auction program, the committee in charge has lined up a triple-feature program with Flight Lieut. Fred Collins of Marion, an officer in England's Royal Air Force now on duty at the AAF Specialized Depot at the Scioto Ordnance Plant, Mrs. Ralph Glass of LaRue and Paul E. Rizor, wounded in North Africa, as speakers. Lieut. Collins has been with the RAF since early in the war and has been on duty in this country many months.

Mrs. Glass is a native of South America and lived there until a few months ago when she flew to this country to become the bride of Ralph Glass, whom she had met in South America while he was there in military service. Her husband is now in a camp in Louisiana and she plans to join him there soon.

Rizor, a Mt. Victory resident, was wounded in North Africa action, having participated in five major battles in Tunisia. He received a medical discharge from service last Dec. 1 and now is Harding county court bailiff.

Other Program Features

Also on the program will be the LaRue Men's quartet, consisting of Ralph Ax[illegible], Rev. Warren Bright, Ivan Coupe and Harley Kramp. Harold Hodson will be chairman. Active in arrangements for the event are J. W. Campbel, LaRue chairman for the Fourth War Loan, Frank Burbaugh, in charge of the drive in Montgomery township and William S. Guthery, in charge of Bowling Green township. The Bowling Green Grange is conducting the drive in Bowling Green township with Willis Bowles acting as chairman of the Grange's part in the solicitation. The institute program committee in handling program details for the auction consists of Mrs. Jessie Davis, Mrs. John McElheney, Mrs. Jesse Miller and Mrs. W. S. Guthery. John Liebold is institute president.

The auction and program will get under way at 8 o'clock, and is open to anyone who wishes to attend, officials announced.

Bond Purchases Honor Employes in Service

Universal Cooler Corp. employes, who went over the top in two days in their Fourth War Loan campaign, took on a new project today, announcing they are purchasing one hundred $50 war bonds as a tribute to the company's 170 employes now in military service.

The employes, announcing their plans through Jack Danner, Fourth War Loan chairman for the company, are buying the war bonds through the Palace theater, receiving 100 tickets to the Air Service Command Varieties, a war bond stage show to be presented on the Palace stage next Monday night.

The purchases also entitled the group to a block of seats in the huge diagram of the theater seat arrangement now on display in the lobby of the Palace. On the diagram each seat in the theater is shown, with the theater seeking to sell enough war bonds during the Fourth War Loan to enable buyers to place the name of some Marion county service man or woman on each seat shown on the diagram. The diagram was set up as a separate project by the theater early in the Fourth War Loan and the seats shown on it are rapidly being filled with names of service men and women. Each bond purchased entitles the buyer to have the name of some person in uniform placed on one of the seats.

In the Universal Cooler Fourth War Loan drive the solicitation among shop workers, in charge of Clarence Keeton, is being handled by members of Local 730, UAW, CIO.

FINAL ADJUSTMENT ON TAX BILL SOUGHT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—In a let's-face-it mood, senate and house conferees on the $2,315,800,000 new tax bill attempted to adjust remaining differences today in time to put a long string of wartime purchase taxes in effect on March 1.

Excise tax increases accounting for more than $1,000,000,000 of the anticipated new revenue become effective on the first day of the first month which begins more than 10 days after enactment of the tax bill.

Unless unforseen delays occur, beginning March 1 the federal tax on liquor will rise from $6 a gallon to $9, furs, jewelry, cosmetics and luggage will be subject to a 20 per cent levy, and charges at night clubs and cabarets to a 30 per cent tax.

Telephone and telegraph service, admissions to movies and other amusement places, club dues, wines, beers and other articles and services also would be taxed heavier.

Those sections of the bill already have been agreed upon, along with increased postal rates, higher corporate excess profits rates expected to yield $502,700,000, and changes in the individual income tax law estimated to add $664,900,000.

45 Games Listed For Cage Teams

Th[illegible] 45 games [illegible] planned for Marion city [illegible] and district cagers [illegible] turn into the final month of regular season frays.

As usual, the North Central Ohio conference's six members [illegible] top billing on the [illegible] of their three [illegible] Friday night. Marion Harding travels to Bucyrus to meet the Redmen for the second time this year, Galion plays at Mt. Vernon, and Ashland's Hilltoppers take the court against the Shelby Whippets at Shelby.

Marion St. Mary's basketball-saturated Irish maintain their terrific two-games-a-week pace this week, facing Marysville High tomorrow night and Mt. Gilead Friday. Both tilts will be played on the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school floor here.

Another quintet of contests is awaiting Marion County league teams Friday night. Only one more evening of regular campaigning will be in store for the 12 county outfits after Friday's card. The annual county tournament, which many fans consider of greater importance than season competition, is due to start within the next few weeks.

It's generally conceded that Harding must pass the acid test, most certainly to be given by Bucyrus this week, in order to remain in the midst of contention for the N. C. O. crown. The Presidents' only league loss in six outings was checked off by Chuck Tschanen's Redmen at the Edison gym last month. The score of that game was 34 to 29, but Bucyrus' superiority was more pronounced than the actual figures might indicate.

Bucyrus Loses Two

Harding probably played one of its most unimpressive games against Bucyrus but has without a doubt improved considerably since then. Bucyrus, however, hasn't done much to better its prestige, having lost two games during the interim—to Ashland, 58 to 45, and Mt. Vernon, 42 to 40.

Bucyrus still looms as a threat to championship honors in spite of its two defeats. The Redmen of Crawford county have four wins, which puts them only a game behind Marion and Ashland, tied for the leadership. If Tschanen's spunky boys deliver another unwelcome package containing defeat to the Hardingmen Friday, they will be in a tie with the Prexies and also with Ashland, if Shelby perchance upsets the Hilltoppers.

But Shelby shouldn't be given more than the thinnest chance to dump the A's. The first time the two got together, Ashland won one of its score-packed victories, 50 to 23. Shelby's only claim to N. C. O. recognition was a 49 to 43 win over Mt. Vernon. But the Whippets fell far short of achieving a win over Bucyrus Friday, the Redmen winning 52 to 34. Earlier in the week, Crestline High's Railroaders slapped Larry Swackhammer's Whippet courtmen, 53 to 40.

Fourth Place Battle

Galion and Mt. Vernon will battle it out for fourth place when they tangle Friday. In the days when Bob Sheffer's Orangemen were being picked to have a big say in deciding the coronation of the league monarch, they smashed Mt. Vernon, 56 to 30.

Marysville and the local St. Mary Irish will converge for the first time on the cage court tomorrow night with a toss-up tilt in the offing. The Irish 1943 football eleven, undefeated in eight games, overpowered the Marysvillians, 33 to 6, in a fracas on the Union county gridiron. The Irish sustained their sixth loss Thursday night by falling before Lima St. Gerard basketeers, whom they previously had clouted.

Friday, St. Mary will be out to avenge a December loss to Bob Blose's Mt. Gilead five. The Morrow countians handed the parochials of Coach Lane McCrate a 39 to 36 beating on the Mt. Gilead floor.

Key game in the Marion county league this week will be Friday's clash between Morral and LaRue at Morral. These teams are tied for runner-up spot in the league and will be meeting for the initial time. If Claridon downs Prospect as it should, the loser of the Morral-LaRue game will be out of the league running.

Week To Clear Cage Picture

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—The most exciting week of the season is ahead for college basketball fans. The results of some 15 outstanding games in the next six days should clear up considerably the national cage picture.

Two games on Wednesday — Marquette at Great Lakes and Texas at Rice—start the fireworks. Great Lakes boasts 20 wins in 22 starts while Marquette, off to a poor start, has bowled over Camp Grant, DePaul and Notre Dame in its last three games. Leadership in the southwest conference is at stake in the Texas-Rice encounter.

On Thursday Great Lakes faces another formidable opponent, Bowling Green of Ohio, winner of 17 games. On Friday Purdue and Ohio State start a two-game weekend series that will help determine the Big Ten champion. Northwestern, which smashed the 12-game winning streak of the Iowa Seahawks, takes on Wisconsin in another important Big Ten struggle.

The excitement mounts on Saturday with the following on the card: Purdue-Ohio State; Oklahoma and Iowa State tangle for the Big Six leadership; North Carolina's domination risks its 11-game streak at Cornell; undefeated Army plays at Rochester and DePaul battles Notre Dame.

Unbeaten Iowa, which faces hapless Chicago on Saturday, ran its winning streak to 11 last week and, along with Army, Utah and Miami university of Ohio stayed in the spotless record class. Knocked out of the undefeated ranks were Georgia Tech, Albright, Milligan (Tenn) and Morehead (Ky.) Teachers.

Among the service teams, other than Great Lakes, Norfolk (Va.) Naval Training Station boosted its winning streak to 14 in a row and its season record to 24 wins against one loss. The Olathe (Kan.) Naval Air Clippers also extended their winning streak to 14. They have lost once.

BOWLING RESULTS

Two Teams Given Permission To Play in Ohio State Loop

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31 — Springfield and Zanesville had permission today to enter the Class D Ohio State baseball league which is to be organized here Feb. 13.

President Elmer Daily of the Middle-Atlantic baseball league announced at Pittsburgh yesterday that franchise holders had agreed the two cities could play in the Buckeye loop since the Mid-A, with which they are affiliated, did not plan to resume operations this year.

This action made it possible to plan for competition among at least six clubs, the other members being Lima, Middletown, Newark and Marion, said Ohio State league president, Joe Donnelly of Columbus.

The circuit has the backing of major league teams seeking a place for a number of players under draft age or classified 4-F, Donnelly reported. The big leagues sent representatives to conferences held previously to discuss organization plans and will have spokesmen at the Feb. 13 meeting, he added.

Mid-Atlantic franchise holders granted Erie, Pa., permission to enter the Pony league.

City's Annual Bowling Tourney Set at Recreation Center Feb. 19

Marion's annual A. B. C.-sanctioned men's bowling tournament will open on the Palace Recreation Center lanes Feb. 19 under sponsorship of the City Bowling association.

No entries have as yet been received by Al Shull, Palace Recreation manager, but about 80 teams and 400 bowlers are expected to sign up before the entry deadline on Feb. 13. Last year, some 76 teams were represented in the event and in the 1942 tourney a record-breaking 105 squads toppled the maples.

This year's tourney will extend over an eight-day period, being scheduled to close Feb. 27. Following is the schedule of events as mapped out to bowling association officials:

Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 19 and 20—Doubles and singles, elimination.

Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 26 and 27—Doubles and singles finals.

Monday, Feb. 21 through Friday, Feb. 25—Five-man team competition.

All local men's league bowlers are eligible for participation in the tourney. An entry fee of 50 cents will be assessed each entrant and will qualify him for both the team and singles competition.

A total of 48 men's teams which roll regularly at the Palace are expected to enter the tourney. Thirty squads that hold weekly kegling sessions at the Marion Recreation on South Prospect street also probably will sign up. In addition to the exclusively men's leagues, three mixed loops in which both men and women roll may furnish contestants for the tourney.

Matches for all three tournament divisions will be mapped out by Palace Manager Shull and bowling association leaders soon after the entry deadline.

As was the case last year, the team division of the tourney will be operated on a handicap basis. All teams will be assigned handicaps not exceeding the three-game series average of the highest-scoring contesting squad.

The singles and doubles will be run on the "all average" plan. The bowler who rolls the highest number of pins above his 1943-44 season average will be recognized as winner.

The annual city women's pin tourney will be staged early in April at the Palace plant.

Bucks, Purdue Top Cage Card

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31—Ohio's college and service basketball teams have 32 contests on tap this week, with heaviest interest centering around Friday and Saturday night clashes here between Purdue's Boilermakers and Ohio State's powerhouse Bucks.

Western Conference title hopes of the two teams hinge on the brace of battles. The Boilermakers are deadlocked at the top of the conference heap with Iowa, each with six straight wins, while Ohio is just back of four-time winner Northwestern with five victories and a lone loss—the latter a two-point setback at the hands of Northwestern.

The The Bucks are the No. 1 scoring team in the Big Ten with 374 points for six tries—an average of 62. Purdue has the second-best scoring average of 55, with 323 for six games, but the Boilermaker defense is a bit tighter with 204 points for an average of 34, while Ohio has allowed 258 for a 43-point mark.

Ohio roared back into the conference scrap with three wins last week after dropping the Northwestern contest.

Denison's Big Red squad, loser only to Bowling Green and Ohio State in 14 starts, and leader in the Ohio Conference race, has the state's top offensive record of 72 points per game. Nine ahead of undefeated Miami.

This week's schedule:

Monday: Marshall at Toledo.

Tuesday: Wooster at Ashland, Lockbourne at Navy Recruiting, Wittenberg at Ohio Northern, Muskingum at Ohio U., Bowling Green at Toledo Navy, Fort Hayes at Naval Delivery.

Wednesday: Toledo at Wright Field, Otterbein at Camp Millard, Baldwin Wallace at Denison, Wilberforce at Bluffton.

Both the Columbus and Indianapolis clubs are on record as favoring a league, and a spokesman who asked that his name be withheld said it was possible other cities might agree to such a plan at the meeting.

HIGH SCHOOL BOARD MAPS TOURNEY PLANS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31—The Ohio high school athletic board today set for March 18 the annual regional basketball tournaments in which final qualifiers for the state scholastic championship round will be named.

The board awarded the Class A regionals to Dennison, Bowling Green, Dayton and Youngstown, and the Class B events to Logan, Bowling Green, Youngstown and Springfield. Four teams will compete in each regional, after qualifying in district play, and each regional meet will send one team to the state finals scheduled in Columbus March 25.

The Dennison tourney will have one team from the central district, two from the eastern district and one from the northeastern as entrants. Four northwestern district teams will compete in the Class A event at Bowling Green, and four northeastern survivors at Youngstown, but the Dayton tourney will have one southeastern district team, and three from the southwestern.

In Class B the entrants will be: at Logan—two southeastern, one central and one eastern district team; at Bowling Green—four northwestern; at Youngstown—three northeastern, one eastern; at Springfield—one central, three southwestern.

The Class B state finals will be held at Ohio State university's gymnasium, and the Class A championship at Columbus auditorium. Pairings for the championship round will be made March 20, in the office of Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend.

COURT RULING UPHOLDS LAW

Massachusetts Statute on Literature Sale by Minors Is Upheld.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 31 — The supreme court upheld by a 5-4 vote today the constitutionality of a Massachusetts law prohibiting a parent or guardian from furnishing literature to a child for sale in any street or public place.

"Parents may be free to become martyrs themselves," Justice Rutledge said in the majority opinion, "but it does not follow they are free, in identical circumstances, to make martyrs of their children before they have reached the age of full and legal discretion when they can make that choice themselves."

Validity of the law was challenged by Mrs. Sarah Prince of Brockton, a member of "Jehovah's Witnesses," who was convicted of supplying literature of this organization to her eight-year-old niece, for sale.

Justices Murphy, Jackson, Roberts and Frankfurter dissented.

Justice Murphy said in a dissenting opinion, "religious freedom is too sacred a right to be restricted or prohibited in any degree without convincing proof that a legitimate interest of the state is in grave danger."

The statute, attorneys for Mrs. Prince asserted, was directed at "commercial exploitation of children through unlawful child labor," and had been "wrongly misinterpreted to cover the charitable preaching, worship and servitude to Almighty God." It was contended the legislation violated the constitutional rights of freedom of speech, press and worship.

Attorney General Robert T. Bushnell of Massachusetts defended the statute as intended to "protect the health, safety, morals, and general welfare of the state's minors or children."

The legislation applies to boys under 12 and girls under 18.

In other actions the court also ruled that a state had the right to prohibit transportation of more than one gallon of liquor within its borders, destined for another state which has legal bars to receiving it.

Justice Reed delivered the unanimous decision on the liquor question involving regulations imposed by the Virginia alcoholic beverage control board.

scores of ships and thousands of men thrusting their way into the heart of the enemy's island stronghold—a chain of islands the foe has been fortifying since the first World war.

Controlling the Marshalls by mandate Japan has barred outsiders since 1938.

That American warships could move so closely to enemy coasts was a tribute to the Seventh army air force—whose planes have pounded the Marshalls for 10 weeks—and to carrier planes who dumped their huge bomb loads on Japanese airfields.

A Tokyo broadcast beamed to North America asserted "Japanese army and navy units have intercepted powerful enemy units which have been attacking the Marshall group since the morning of Jan. 30 and fierce fighting is now going on."

Things aren't going so well for the Nipponese on other fronts. Friday American planes continued their persistent attacks on Rabaul, onetime powerful Japanese stronghold on New Britain, and bagged at least 30 and more likely 62 enemy planes. Thirty of 70 Nipponese interceptors were certain kills and 12 were probables. On the ground 20 more enemy planes were caught like "sitting ducks" and added to the "probable" toll. Our loses were five fighters and a medium bomber.

The Japanese had their worst month of the war in the air in January, losing at least 546 planes and probably 717 against our loss of 69.

Today's communique from General Douglas MacArthur reported naval bombardment of Jap targets on Bougainville in the Solomons as well as dive bombing attacks on enemy positions holding up the allied drive on Madang, New Guinea. A convoy was caught off the northwest tip of New Ireland by a reconnaissance plane which left two ships burning.

On the western end of New Britain island the Japs were reported pinned down against the mountainous interior by Marines with strong aerial support.

Allied troops captured Vitali, half mile north of Hundaw on the Arakan front in Burma without opposition. RAF dive bombers hit Japanese airfields at the the western Burma port of Akyab and surrounding areas while American mediums were active in central Burma.

Chinese Troops Hit Jap Burma Regiment

NEW DELHI, Jan. 31—An entire Japanese regiment has been hacked to pieces and eliminated by Chinese troops fighting on the Ledo road, and another is being drawn in for a similar fate, Brig. Gen. Hayden Boatner, Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's chief of staff, said today.

His statement threw more light on the scope of operation by which the Chinese are clearing the way for the Ledo road, being built from extreme northwest India across Burma into China along the trail of the old Burma road.

Boatner came to New Delhi after 10 months in jungle area on the Ledo road, where he and other Americans have been coaching and assisting the Chinese in their first action on the India side of the front.

Two Ohio Cities Get New Labor Ratings

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Two changes in the Ohio labor shortage situation this month were reported by the war manpower commission today, both showing less critical need than a month ago.

The Newark area was shifted from the group II classification, covering areas where labor is "tight" and a shortage may be expected in six months, to group III where slight labor reserves will remain after six months.

Steubenville was moved from group III to group IV, where substantial labor reserves will exist after six months.

POOR FARM HEALTH BLAMED ON LOW PAY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31—Low income, long hours with hard work, and lack of medical care were advanced today by Joseph Fichter, master of the Ohio State grange, as reasons for farm youths' having comparatively poorer health than their city cousins.

His explanation was in comment on an article by Col. Leonard G. Rowntree in the Journal of the American Medical Association reporting rejections of 18 and 19 year old farm workers for military service were 62 per cent above the average for other registrants and higher than for any other major occupational group.

Fichter declared, "the open country with its pure air, its sunlight and its good food should be a most healthful place in which to live. However, the low income which farmers have received during the last 25 years has meant that farm life has been a life of long hours and strenuous work with little time for recreation.

"There is no doubt that this situation has had a harmful effect on the health of farm children.

"Although farm income now is higher than its has been for several years, farmers received only nine per cent of the total national income in 1943." Farmers, he said, constitute about 25 per cent of the population.

He termed as "to the point" a suggestion that extensions of public health facilities should be made.

Defects which caused the greatest number of rejections in the 18 and 19-year-old group were bad vision, lack of mental balance, muscular or bone abnormalities, heart diseases, hearing deficiencies and hernia, it was reported by Dr. A. R. Mangus, Ohio State university, rural sociologist.

Dr. Mangus urged rural residents to "do something about it" by discussing group health plans and study the merits of tax-supported medical and hospital service.

GRAINS ARE WEAKER AS TRADING ENDS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 — Grains weakened toward the close today when buying power dried up and it appeared that fairly large offerings were hanging over the market. Rye, which had been up about a cent at one time, backed down quickly and other grains followed. Selling in wheat came from houses with southwestern connections.

A forecast of colder weather over the corn belt attracted attention, grain men asserting it would be beneficial for corn stored in cribs. High temperatures and moisture were not favorable for improving the quality of stored corn, they added. It was thought also freezing of roads would permit heavier marketings.

KENTON—Capt. Robert Fitzpatrick of Kenton is missing in action in the India-Burma war theater where he has been stationed since Sept. 11. His wife was notified by the war department that Capt. Fitzpatrick was lost Jan. 18 (the day following his twenty-third birthday) when the plane to which he was assigned for scout and reconnaissance work went down. He may be afoot back of enemy lines, relatives believe.

MOST LEADERS AT STANDSTILL

Specialties Alone Continue To Act Well in Today's Market Session.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—Specialties continued to act fairly well in today's stock market but numerous leaders virtually were at a standstill.

Prices hardened here and there after an irregularly lower opening although the minus ranks were well filled near the fourth hour. Dealings were among the slowest for the month.

Customers generally maintained a cautious attitude pending settlement of the tax question, completion of the war loan drive and more important foreign news.

Ahead at intervals were Pullman, American Distilling "plain," Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, General Motors and Eastman Kodak. Occasional losers included Western Union, "A," Southern Pacific, J. C. Penney, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott, American Smelting and Radio Corp.

MARION CO. GROUP AT PARTY MEETING

Ohio Young Democrats Hold Two-Day Convention.

James Lauer, chairman of the Marion County Democratic executive committee, and Mrs. Lauer of Prospect, and John Parish, president of the Marion County Young People's Democratic club, and Mrs. Parish of North Prospect street, attended a two-day biennial convention of the Ohio Young People's Democratic club Saturday and Sunday at Cleveland.

The delegates adopted a resolution urging President Roosevelt to run for a fourth term "to the end that this war may be speedily concluded and our country prosper in permanent and everlasting peace," an Associated Press dispatch from Cleveland reports.

In other resolutions the convention requested:

That Gov. Bricker call a special session of the legislature to repeal the sales tax, "in the light of a surplus of nearly $100,000,000."

That the governor call the legislature to consider enactment of new election statutes permitting service men and women to vote.

That congress and the states amend laws to lower eligible voting age to 18.

Delegates elected George Flanagan of Dayton to succeed Ralph Groves of Steubenville as president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Ohio.

The question of the possible candidacy of Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination was left unanswered by the delegates, the dispatch states.

The mayor received a number of petitions and letters from district delegations urging him to seek the nomination, but he made no reference to the requests in an address last night.

JAPAN AND PEACE CHURCH FORUM TOPIC

O. W. U. Professor Speaks at Epworth Service.

"Japan and World Peace" was the subject of Prof. Guy Sarvis of Ohio Wesleyan university, third speaker in the series of discussions on "Building a Christian Post-War World," sponsored by Marion church groups, when he addressed an audience of approximately 450 persons in Epworth Methodist church Sunday night.

Dr. Sarvis, a missionary in China and Japan for 16 years, declared that it is the way persons are educated, not race or blood which makes one group of people different from another. "Not all Germans or Japanese are bad," he said, "but it is individuals. The Japanese are an intelligent people, not sub-human creatures. What we call trickery they look on as intelligent outwitting of the enemy." He went on to say, however, that stories of their atrocities are not over-colored, but pointed out that Germany has committed more atrocities than any other country, and that in war all countries are guilty of atrocities done to the enemy.

In a forum period John Clark presided.

The meeting next will be held in Epworth church next Sunday night with Prof. Sarvis speaking on the race problem.

Five Ohio Colleges Lose Army Trainees

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—The Army air forces will return to civilian users 70 colleges—among them five in Ohio—utilized in the college training program and 14 civilian schools from the pilot training program.

The Ohio schools are Penn college, Hiram, Marietta college, University of Akron and Western Reserve university.

The war department announcement said students now training in the 70 schools would complete their courses but that no new Army air forces students would be accepted for training there.

The department said the move was in conformance with Gen. H. H. Arnold's report that as the war progresses stress would be placed on training of replacements.

The AAF announced the change did not in any manner reflect "dissatisfaction relative to the performance of the school."

FARM WEEK GOES ON AIR THIS YEAR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31—Ohio state university's annual farmer's week opened today and for the first time in its history was conducted by radio.

Wartime travel restrictions and labor shortages that made it impossible for many farmers to come here brought the decision to conduct the annual event as an "armchair" affair.

Experts on food production, farm problems, home economics are scheduled to appear before the WOSU station microphone in a series of lectures that continue through Friday.

Gov. Bricker is to discuss the state and the war. President Howard L. Bevis of the university will speak on the school's place in war effort as a highlight of tomorrow's program.

Thursday's session will be devoted to lectures on health and poultry raising. The 1944 food out look will be forecast Friday by J. I. Falconer of Ohio State's department of rural economics.

CLASS PLEDGES MADE

Pledges for the year were made and plans discussed for a box social at the community house when the Up and Over class of the First United Brethren Sunday school met Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sergen of Monroe street. Assisting host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Young. Miss Mildred Noble was in charge of devotions. The members gave their New Year's resolutions. Lunch was served and a social hour followed a business session.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I [illegible] for a newcomer.

A Private Signal

"I was watching her intently, and the instant her gaze crossed mine I made the private little signal which always meant 'Look out! Danger!' between us. She gave not the slightest indication that she had seen anything out of the ordinary, but a second later when she apparently sent her gaze over the occupants of another table, she lifted her hand to her head, and fussed with a lock of hair just above her right ear, the answering signal of our code.

I relaxed against my chair back with the assurance that she knew I was near her, and focused my attention upon Marion, careful to make my searching glances appear cursory.

Watchfulness Rewarded

It was but a few seconds before my watchfulness was rewarded. One of the men at Marion's table was bending toward her, and a child could have seen that he was urging some course of action upon her.

She shook her head with decided negation at his first questions, then as he persisted, her voice, unmistakably Marion's, but raised shrilly as I never had heard it in all her carefully trained girlhood, cut through the chatter at the other tables.

"I tell you I don't know her," she cried. "I never saw her before. She isn't the person you think she is at all, and I won't go over to her table and make a fool of myself."

I knew instantly what she was doing. She was acting from the same fear that had motivated her purposely misspelled code letters to Lillian and to Mary, fear that her mother was being lured into a trap of some kind with herself as the bait.

Intentionally Loud

If Marion wished to draw attention to herself and the people with her, she was succeeding. And, with a sudden recollection of the personals we had inserted in the "agony columns" of the newspapers, telling her in the childish code Mary and she had used long ago, that we were attempting her rescue and to watch out for us, I realized that she was doing just that.

I wished there were some way I could let her know that I was in the restaurant, but for the moment, my only role was continued watchfulness. But I longed viciously to leave the mark of my hand on the glowering face of the gangster who was answering Marion's outburst with muttered words which I was sure contained a threat.

Then suddenly he rose, and giving Marion a black angry scowl at her temerity, he walked toward Lillian's table.

She had pretended to ignore the passage, and the other diners evidently had not connected her with Marion's outburst. But as he neared her table, she turned her head in my direction, and I knew that a frantic appeal for guidance was mirrored in the eyes behind the dark glasses.

Gangster Approaches

Furtively but quickly, I gave her the signal which meant 'Say [illegible] her right ear and I knew that the situation would be safe in her capable hands.

As the gangster, a stocky middle-aged man garbed expensively but not flashily, indeed with surprising conservative good taste, reached Lillian's table, I counted at least four men in different parts of the restaurant who were keyed to an attention more acute than for curiosity, while [illegible] the other diners were regarding the scene. I told myself with a sense of security that my father's men were strictly "on the job," but did not lessen my own vigilant watchfulness as the gangster bent toward Lillian and put a low-voiced question. But her answer was no more muted than Marion's had been, and could have been heard several tables away.

"I am sorry," she said, "but you have made a mistake. I am not Mrs. Morton."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Gallbladder

RECENTLY we compared the gallbladder to one of those obstreperous relatives known to every household who is periodically making trouble, but at most times is doing something fairly useful.

The function of the gallbladder, we said, is to store bile until it is necessary to help out in digestion. Bile is a main factor in fat digestion and fat in a meal causes the gallbladder to empty.

Most of the time, however, the bile remains in stasis in the gallbladder and anything in Nature which is in stasis is a potential site of trouble. So the sluggish gallbladder may become infected and the infection may produce gallstones. These conditions show up the gallbladder in a less lovely light—as a trouble maker.

Gallbladder disease is a continuous process, but it may get sidetracked. It always starts with an infection and inflammation—the breeding of germs in the bile or in the wall of the gallbladder. It may stop there and cause just a mild dyspepsia sometimes not so mild. Or it may go on to gallstone formation. Or it may go on to pus formation—empyema of the gallbladder, a very serious condition indeed.

Gallstones are seldom stones. They are almost the consistency of putty, being made up of the deposit of the bile salts. So they do not throw a shadow on the x-ray plate as do kidney stones. Occasionally a calcium stone forms which does throw a shadow.

Gallstones are of all kinds and may do all kinds of things. They may be big or little. If big they stay in the gallbladder and grind around causing discomfort in the pit of the stomach. If little they may try a journey down the gall ducts—which is gallstone colic, with pain reflected to the shoulder—no fun in any man's language. There may be one stone or five thousand.

Certain types of people are disposed to gallstones. The heavy set, broad type who has a good appetite and enjoys life is the ideal victim. The heavy meal that stays in the stomach a long time "like lead" tends to cause stasis in the gallbladder because it does not empty until food gets in the intestine.

This is a point in prevention. If a person avoids over-rich foods and conditions or habits that lead to disturbances of digestion, his chances of having gallstones will be diminished.

The treatment of gallbladder disease will depend on its severity and the possible dangers involved. The modern surgery of gallbladder disease is a brilliant chapter in treatment, and when such a condition as pus in the gallbladder [illegible] or gallstones repeatedly precipitate disabling attacks of colic it is a comfort to know that surgery is available and safe.

But most gallbladder troubles are so mild as hardly to indicate such measures. Remembering—a tablespoon of cream will drain the gallbladder. And by the same token a fat meal will stir it up. A judicious use of diet may control this obstreperous member indefinitely.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. D.: Can you tell me what will dissolve wax in the ear? Have tried sweet oil, but that won't move it.

Answer: Wax in the ear often gets stony hard and attached to the skin. If simple home methods, like sweet oil, do not move it, this is a case for the doctor.

Mrs. H. K.: My dentist tells me I am bordering on Pyorrhea and my gums are receding rapidly, but when I asked him how to prevent further receding he told me about the best method would be to tie a large stone around my neck and jump into the ocean.

Answer: Professional people often try to be smarty by giving such answers. I presume everybody is nervous in wartime, but there is certainly no reason for such an answer. I would advise you to get another dentist because there are plenty of ways of holding back pyorrhea.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Feb. 1

[illegible]

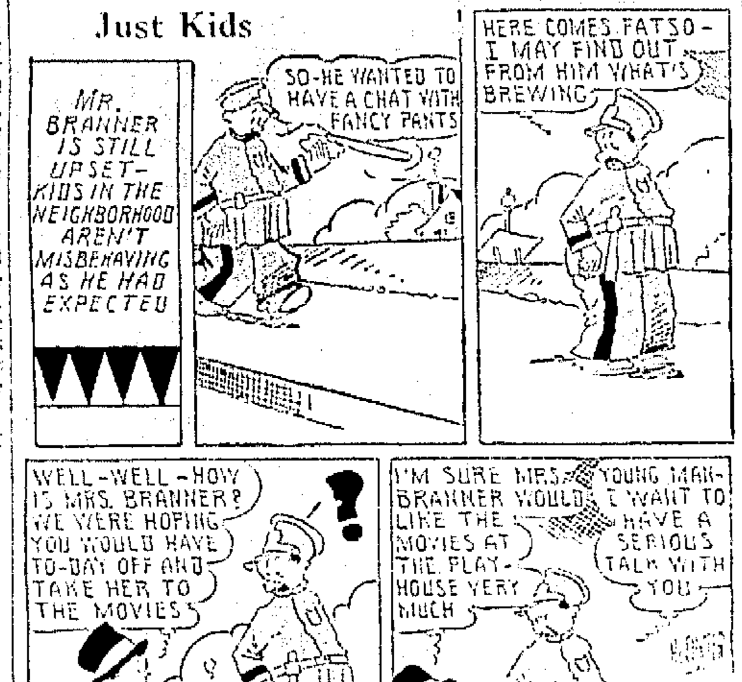

Those whose birthday it is may be ready for a year of moderate openings for placing the affairs on a constructive and enduring foundation. Initiative and quick action should be supported by sound fundamentals and not defeated by an extravagant or impulsive methods. Study details, organize for lasting and testing final issues, [illegible] It would be wise to be ready for aggressive action when surprises occur and not be swept off the feet by overzeal and unpreparedness. Hard work and not haste is recommended.

A child born on this day should have much practical skill with initiative and energy to attack good prospects with zeal and enthusiasm as well as fine organizing ability. Its danger might be in impetuosity.
